- VHIS recorded 84% awareness with 40% of respondents who have yet to purchase VHIS interested to buy one in the next 12 months shortly after its first anniversary; full coverage on medical expenses (90% of all respondents) and no waiting period for unknown pre-existing conditions (86%) are among the top purchase considerations
- HSBC Voluntary Health Insurance Flexi Plan offers one of the highest annual benefit limits in the market of up to HKD40 million, no sub-limits for hospitalisation and surgical fees, and no waiting period for unknown pre-existing conditions, in addition to a tax deduction up to HKD8,000 per policy
- HSBC Family Protector, a first-in-market digital solution, allows customers to choose from 84 different Life and Health protection benefit combinations and customise a comprehensive insurance solution at their fingertips

HSBC Life today launched two products, namely HSBC Voluntary Health Insurance Scheme (VHIS) Standard Plan and Flexi Plan and HSBC Family Protector, to meet customers’ growing expectations for more comprehensive and customised protection solutions. Both plans allow customers to choose the protection coverage according to their life-stage needs.

According to a research on medical insurance commissioned by HSBC Life in June 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic has lifted people’s awareness of their health needs, with 41% of respondents currently not covered by medical insurance saying they will consider taking out one. Separately, at the first anniversary of the Government’s tax deduction initiatives, VHIS recorded the highest level of awareness (84%) with nearly a fifth (18%) of the respondents being VHIS holders. For those who have yet to take out a VHIS policy, 40% of them are considering getting one in the next 12 months with younger respondents (aged 18 – 30) being the most enthusiastic (46%).

HSBC VHIS Flexi Plan – comprehensive market-leading coverage with great flexibility
According to the survey, when purchasing medical insurance, full coverage for expenses on surgical and non-surgical cancer treatment (90%), reimbursement for all expenses on hospitalisation and surgical treatment (89%), and no waiting period for unknown pre-existing conditions (86%) are prime considerations. To ensure comprehensive coverage for individuals and their families, 53% of those who are already covered by a group or company medical plan still decided to purchase a separate personal medical insurance in the event that their company medical coverage proves inadequate.

Against this backdrop, HSBC Life launched VHIS Standard Plan and Flexi Plan with the latter designed to cater to customers’ comprehensive and flexible medical coverage needs. Key features of HSBC VHIS Flexi Plan include full coverage for hospitalisation and surgical fees with no sub-limits, full cover for both surgical and non-surgical cancer treatment expenses, no waiting period for unknown pre-existing conditions, cashless arrangement to minimise upfront out-of-pocket expenses, home nursing benefits, flexible options and a maximum annual deduction of HKD8,000 per policy.

Edward Moncreiffe, Chief Executive Officer, Hong Kong, HSBC Life, said, “The high awareness of VHIS amongst the community speaks to the growing importance and value of health and protection for Hongkongers. More than a third of people who experienced hospitalisation (38%) said they focus on getting the best coverage more than the price of premiums and many of those who have made claims in public (42%) and private (33%) hospitals wished they had purchased more comprehensive coverage. All these show us that Hongkongers are expecting more than basic protection and are willing to step up preparedness for health-related needs. I expect this trend to increase further following the health challenges that Hong Kong and global societies have faced this year.

“A priority for HSBC Life is to help our customers pursue health and overall well-being and what this means is personal to each individual and family. Our HSBC VHIS Plans were designed to provide great flexibility in health protection, allowing our customers to opt for a range of solutions that best meet their needs. This means they can choose a coverage level, from HKD420,000 all the way to HKD40,000,000 in annual benefits limits, that provides comprehensive medical coverage at an affordability level for ultimate peace of mind.”

The plan also aims to provide accessible and comprehensive medical protection to customers and their loved ones, and allows customers to obtain coverage for their extended family members including parents, grandparents, children and siblings with family discounts.

HSBC Family Protector – market first, Netflix™ type mix-and-match digital insurance solution

The survey also showed that 57% of respondents deem the flexibility to customise their insurance solutions directly and digitally an important factor when considering insurance purchase. In tandem with the launch of the VHIS plans, HSBC Life is also introducing the innovative HSBC Family Protector online, allowing customers to choose from as many as 84 benefit combinations to customise a yearly renewable term life insurance plan to protect themselves and loved ones. Four flexible benefits categories across child protection, critical illness and cancer protection, hospital cash benefit and accidental death benefits are available at customers’ fingertips to mix and match a combination that suits their health needs. The life coverage, with a daily premium as low as HKD10.93, could reach up to HKD7,000,000. The product is exclusively available online at hsbc.com.hk.

Moncreiffe said, “Health and family always come first when we plan for the future. And more and more customers want to safeguard their plans through online platform. This innovative and first-in-market online protection plan, offering the highest flexibility possible, gives back family protection control to our customers to customise the level of protection benefits that meets their unique insurance needs.”
