HSBC BRINGS ANDROID PAY TO HONG KONG CUSTOMERS

HSBC today gives customers using Android devices access to Android Pay in Hong Kong. HSBC Visa and MasterCard cardholders can now make payments conveniently using Android Pay in stores with Visa payWave or MasterCard contactless payment terminals in Hong Kong and overseas, as well as within apps.

Greg Hingston, HSBC's Head of Retail Banking and Wealth Management, Hong Kong, said, "We have been witnessing a strong growth of contactless payments recently. We are pleased to be among the first to offer Android Pay in Hong Kong. By joining Android Pay in Hong Kong, we have comprehensive mobile payment solutions for customers using different mobile operating platforms. This will enable them to use their smartphones for their daily purchases. Mobile payments have become part of our everyday lives, providing a fast, simple and convenient payment experience. With different mobile payment options available, we expect more customers to use their smartphones for their daily purchases."

Android Pay is a simple and secure way to do everyday shopping. When you make a purchase, Android Pay does not send your actual credit card number with your payment transaction details. Instead, a virtual number is used to represent your account information to ensure that your card and account details stay safe.

Android Pay is easy to set up and users will continue to receive all of the existing rewards and benefits offered by HSBC credit cards, with access to a wide range of credit card offers and privileges such as extra RewardCash. From now until 30 November 2016, HSBC cardholders can receive up to an extra HKD 250 RewardCash by using Android Pay.
