HSBC AND HKTVMALL ROLL OUT INNOVATIVE MERCHANT FINANCE PROGRAMME IN HONG KONG

LEVERAGING COMMERCIAL DATA FOR CREDIT ASSESSMENT

HSBC and HKTVmall jointly launched today an innovative digital merchant finance programme (the Programme) that leverages commercial data for credit assessment, making finance more accessible for merchants that look to thrive in the e-Commerce market in Hong Kong.

As part of the Commercial Data Interchange (CDI) initiative of the Hong Kong Monetary Authority, the partnership combines the strong digital innovation capabilities of both HSBC and HKTVmall to match the rapid market evolution and support fintech development.

Under the new Programme, HSBC will evaluate loan applications based on HKTVmall's diversified commercial data such as turnover, types of goods, as well as return and refund records. Available to eligible HKTVmall merchants in phases, the Programme will offer 90-day trade facility of up to USD500,000 without requiring further financial statement and provision of collateral. Tailored solutions will also be offered to merchants with additional financing needs.

Frank Fang, Head of Commercial Banking, Hong Kong, HSBC, said: "Big data and other emerging technologies present huge opportunities for the banking industry to innovate for the wider business community's benefit. HSBC is pleased to forge this pioneering partnership with HKTVmall, offering better support to merchants while promoting financial inclusion in Hong Kong. We will continue to invest in digitisation and foster closer collaboration with different fintech ecosystem players."

Alice Wong, Group Chief Financial Officer of HKTV, said: "At HKTV, technology and innovation are the core competence for us. As for our 24-hour online shopping mall HKTVmall, we value the importance and contribution from big data and this explains the launch of Open Databank, that we wish to unleash to potential of big data to different stakeholders of the society. The partnership with HSBC is an important step towards this mission, that creates synergy for the bank, the merchants and also HKTVmall, to enhance efficiency in digital financing and to make smart utilisation of our data."

HSBC and HKTVMall announced a partnership aiming to simplify merchant finance with commercial data in February 2021. Both parties eventually jointly developed a data-driven credit decision-making process and end-to-end trade loan application experience for merchants.

Centralfield Computer Limited, a HKTVMall merchant, was offered the first digital trade loan under the Programme last week. Around 200 HKTVMall merchants will be invited into the first phase of the Programme.

HSBC is dedicated to promoting the development of e-Commerce and the new economy. Since June 2019, HSBC has already supported over 50 new economy companies through the HSBC GBA+ Technology Fund, which was recently upsized from USD880 million to USD1.13 billion to accommodate strong customer demand.
